Today Governor Dinner Guest Here Wednesday

Leaving Convicts Read.
Taking Babies Away.
The Man Without a Car.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE.

WARDEN LAWES, of Sing Sing prison, wise man, says: "I shall let my convicts read in newspapers accounts of the outbreak in the Auburn penitentiary. There will be a good deal of buzzing when they read them. But the effect on their morale of withholding the newspapers would be worse than allowing them to see them."

THAT'S an intelligent man. The ears might be ruling yet had they known enough to let the people know the facts.

Information and discussion supply a great safety valve.

THE WARDEN of Auburn prison, captured by convicts in rebellion, said the convicts, of whom many are dead, were made desperate by the knowledge that if they failed, they would surely go to the electric chair. In this case, at least, capital punishment did not deter men from murder.

AN "expert" of the Russian government proposes that all babies be taken from their mothers, "immediately after birth," and brought up by the state. He wouldn't even give them time to be weaned.

Somebody should tell that gentleman the difference between mother's milk and other milk. Also somebody should tell Stalin, Russia's real ruler, that while human beings will stand much regulating, women rule in the end and will not allow their children to be taken from them.

SPARTA tried that, although he didn't take unwashed babies from their mothers. Sparta did not live. Ignorance unfortunately accompanies the raising of children, in spiritual and in material things.

AN ABLE physician says "99 per cent of families are ignorant of the proper care of children."

Nevertheless, an ignorant mother is better for the child than the most scientific and cold blooded government institution.

SOMEBODY supposed to be an expert says that the United States will manufacture in 1930 1,000,000 fewer automobiles than in 1929.

That prediction, probably mistaken, is not creditable to the people's intelligence.

Many things a family can do without, but no family, properly organized, can do without a good automobile.

WHEN one is worn out it should be replaced. When a better automobile appears, and a family can afford a better one, it should be got.

Automobiles mean saving time, consequently longer life. A man who can "get along without an automobile" is one whose time and life are not worth much.

FORMER GOV. SMITH, who got 15,000,000 votes for President on the Democratic ticket, about 100,000 as many as any other Democrat ever got, makes this interesting announcement:

In the center of the 85-story building, with tower 1,100 feet high that he is erecting on the site of the old Waldorf-Astoria in New York City, former Gov. Smith plans a mooring mast for Zeppelin airships.

Air passengers will come down from their ships, landing at the corner of Thirty-fourth street and Fifth avenue in a few minutes, instead of coming all the way in from Lakehurst, N. J.

If Gov. Smith puts that through, he will contribute something to transportation progress.

PACKERS RETURN TO THEIR JOBS

Dispute at Newell Plants of Homer Laughlin China Co. Adjusted.

The dispute did not affect operations in other departments.

He was arrested after police raided his home in Market street, last night. A half gallon of wine was confiscated, police said.

8 Shopping Days to Christmas!

The banquet was followed by a dance with Jimmy Reese's dance band furnishing the music.

OLD SOL ENDS HARBOR TIE-UP IN NEW YORK

Liner, With 150 Aboard, Crashes Into Pier.

FOG IS BLAMED

Ten Injured in Other Accidents on Steamers.

By International News Service. NEW YORK, Dec. 14.—The sun broke through the clouds today, dissipating a fog which had hung over the harbor and the metropolitan area for hours, delaying vessels and disrupting ferry schedules.

The fog played queer and costly pranks with shipping. It caused the sound liner Lexington, with 150 passengers aboard, to crash into pier number 52, East river, after barely dodging a government dredge.

One of the biggest ocean greyhounds, the France, was lost in the fog early this morning, and even though her wireless chattered shipping men didn't know exactly where she was.

Early today visibility had been reduced to a bare 100 feet on the upper harbors and rivers. The harbor rang with whistles of slowly moving vessels, the gongs warning shipping away from ferry slips.

Thousands of persons were delayed reaching their offices this morning by the disruption of the ferry schedules.

Old Sol's appearance ended virtually a week of fog. Ships came into New York harbor days late, due to fog and storm conditions on the ocean. The gale-tossed North American German Lloyd liner Bremen arrived three days late after one of the most severe and hazardous Atlantic passages in the history of shipping.

Seas of incredible force and hurricanes delayed the liner Bremen and were responsible for injuries to 10 passengers.

Scores of other ships were late, all the way from a few hours to several days.

CALLES GETS U. S. IMMUNITY

State Department's Telegram Prevents His Arrest.

By International News Service. WASHINGTON, Dec. 14.—A telegram which the state department sent whizzing across the wires today to Laredo, Texas, will prevent Plutarco Elias Calles, former president of Mexico, from being arrested at the Texas town in connection with two murders.

The message, stating Calles had been accorded full diplomatic immunity in an America visa which was attached to his Mexican passport, was directed to John A. Walls, district attorney of Laredo. Walls announced he would arrest Calles when he passed through Texas on his return trip to Mexico.

Secretary of State Stimson took this action after Richard Boyce, American consul, reported Walls would not molest Calles if Doyle could show him an official letter stating immunity and been granted him.

The message also stated President Hoover fully recognizes the special immunity granted Calles for his round-trip through the country from New York.

No armed guard has been detailed to see his trip to the southern republic is not interrupted, Stimson said.

They were all taken to city jail where each posted $10 bond and was released.

The police made a spectacular entrance to the room by crashing through a door. The players arose in confusion but soon quieted and submitted to arrest.

$160,000,000 TAX CUT GIFT IS PROMISED

Senate Leaders Agree To Pass Bill Today.

BLOCK CHANGES

Slash on Farm Product Freight Rates Hit.

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON International News Service Staff Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 14.—The American people were assured a $160,000,000 tax reduction gift for Christmas when the senate leaders agreed today to pass the administration's measure before nightfall.

Three proposals to amend were pending, but administration leaders were rallying votes to prevent their adoption because any change in the resolution will necessitate its return to the house. If passed by the senate in its present form the measure will go direct to the White House for President Hoover's approval. In either event, the tax paying public will get its tax reduction gift before Christmas, although federal taxes will not be due until next March 15.

The senate already has rejected one of the pending proposals, the McMaster plan to use $150,000,000 to reduce freight rates on wheat, cattle and other farm products. This proposal, entirely eliminating tax reduction, was rejected by a vote of 12 to 60. Seven Republicans, Blaine, Brookhart, Howell, McMaster, Norbeck and Nye, and five Democrats, Blease, Harris, Heflin, Sheppard and Smith, voted for it.

Senator McMaster (R) of South Dakota, its author, sponsored his plan again as an amendment to the bill. Its rejection was assured, since in its new form it would provide for tax reduction as well as a slash in freight rates on farm products.

PASTOR URGES FAITH IN GOD

Pastor Preaches in Oakland Revival Services.

"The earnest seeker is the earnest believer," said the Rev. Brooks Morgan in a sermon at revival services in the Oakland Free Methodist church last night. Using "Faith Gave the Lord" as his subject, he emphasized the importance of faith in the religious life.

"God has promised to help those who earnestly seek Him and we must have faith to trust that promise. By faith we live through time of trial and temptation when the Lord seems to have left us. The value of what we seek is great enough to be worthy of our implicit faith."

"Trust God and step out strongly upon His promise and He will never fail you. Only by faith can we reach the kingdom of heaven."

Two seekers answered the altar call last night. The conversions has been reported during the three week series of meetings.

MISSIONAIRE TO SPEAK HERE

Mrs. Nannie Miller, Coshocton Will Speak in Penn Avenue Church Sunday.

Mrs. Nannie Miller of Coshocton, field secretary of the Women's Foreign liminary survey and study of conditions in Niles relative to the proposed canalization of the Mahoning, Beaver and Shenango rivers was undertaken today by A. B. Redshaw, representative of the United States engineering department.

Backers of the canal project view the arrival of Redshaw as an encouraging indication of the government's interest. The proposed canal would be of the slack water type and would connect the Beaver, Mahoning and a spur of the Shenango rivers with the Ohio. The estimated cost of the waterway is $45,000,000.

Manufacturers claim that cheaper transportation resulting from the waterway will encourage industrial expansion in this region whereas it is now being discouraged because of high freight rates.

CHIANG WINS OVER REBELS

Nanking Government Chief Weathers New Crisis.

By International News Service. SHANGHAI, Dec. 14.—President Chiang Kai Shek has successfully weathered another serious crisis and appears to have strengthened his position at the head of the Nanking government, observers of far-eastern affairs believed today in the light of the events of the past week.

Reports from the interior stated that the rebels everywhere were badly disorganized and that normal conditions were being quickly restored in the important cities which had been affected by the revolt.

Chiang's position was materially strengthened by the declaration of loyalty made by General Yen Shi-Shan, governor of Shanghai. General Yen had previously been reported supporting the powerful northern military combination of rebels.

General Shih Yu-Shuan, leader of the Pukow rebels who threatened Nanking, also has given in to the Nationalist government, having declared that he was holding himself and his troops at Peking awaiting judgment and punishment.

As a result, the Nanking government is confident of suppressing General Pang Seng-Chi, whose troops had attempted to gain control of Hanlow in order to install Wang Ching-Wei, left leader, who has just returned to China, as president.

POSTAL AIDES AWAIT RUSH

Building Remodeled, Repainted on Eve Of Christmas.

Following remodeling, painting and installation of new lights and sectional cases for the receiving and sending of mails, the East Liverpool postoffice, as perhaps not in recent years, is ready for the Christmas business that already is beginning to descend upon it.

A new floor has been laid in the post office working room. This department alone makes noticeable an added aid to the movements of the men and women using it.

Fifteen large lights hang from the ceiling. They are protected by reflectors that go far in making more light than formerly, while also protecting the eyes of the employees.

Cases at which delivery clerks sort and arrange the mail which they handle have two and those of the other clerks three additional lights.

The rotunda now looms resplendent in its new coats of paint. Finally the wooden steps that are used during the winter season upon the stone ones at the entrance of the building have also been painted a drab hue which is in keeping with all of the other appointments about the place just as the holiday season approaches.

BALLET DANCERS FAIL TO SECOND MOTIONS MADE BY PARIS TEACHER

Pretty Sally Ritz, Youngstown Girl, Says They Don't Fit In With Yankee Art.

BY DAVID P. SENTNER. Copyright, 1929, by International News Service.

NEW YORK.—How do you sit down, my pretty nymphs? asked Raymond Duncan, brother of the late Isadora Duncan, spending a few weeks over here before returning to Europe.

Duncan, clad in silken self-apron toga and with his iron-gray unbobbed locks garnishing his shoulders, was delivering a lecture on his theory of dancing to eight pretty ballet dancers of "A Wonderful

The eight balletinas of the Chester Hale troupe, arrayed in scanties of pinks and blues and greens, sat themselves down.

"Now here's how I sit down—watch me," said Duncan.

He sort of poured himself down, settling to the carpet like a slow motion picture.

"It takes too long," protested Sally Ritz, one of the prettiest of the dancers.

"Now get up, girls," commanded Professor Duncan.

The girls got up—very nicely.

thought I. "That's not the way to get up, my pretty nymphs," said Duncan. "Now watch how I get up." He floated upwards. "I go up like a corkscum," he explained.

Of course, I don't know much about art and I don't run a dancing school in Paris as does Ray Duncan.

But personally, I liked the way the girls sat down and got up. It looked okay to me.

Izzy Kaplan, newspaper photographer, was carried away by the lecture. He stepped to the center of the carpet and attempted to follow Duncan's methods. Izzy didn't have any luck at all. He is pretty stout and was a literal flop.

I asked Sallie Ritz, the girl who was born with a name to make any stage girl envious, what she thought of it all.

Sallie comes from Youngstown, Ohio. She is only 18 years old, and came to New York two years ago to study ballet dancing.

Now she is taking singing lessons for she is ambitious to be a musical comedy star. And if you believe what you see and what her theatrical friends say about her abilities, Sallie Ritz is liable to hit the spotlight mighty soon.

"I don't believe Mr. Duncan's dancing theories fit into American art," said Sallie. "He is against the quick, modern movements and doesn't believe in the 'stiff knee technique.'"

Duncan amplified his dancing theory as he was putting back on his sandals.

"I have reduced the human movement into a scale of thirteen notes," he said. "These girls are taught movements by numbers. I teach freedom of movement, guided by the emotions. I take my movements from the working people, the peasants—these movements are more simple and more beautiful."

Duncan said that his theory was based on two points—the "pendulum" and "the elastic ball" principle of moving the body. He said that the grace and coordination of star baseball, football and tennis players, illustrated his theory of movement.

"I believe I could do remarkable things as an athletic coach with my system of movements," he said.

I thanked Professor Duncan for his lecture and moved off under my own system of movement which I had been following since childhood.

SEEK TO CLEAR MOONEY'S NAME

Two Ohioans Say Former Labor Leader is Innocent of Bomb Plot.

By International News Service. BELLAIRE, O., Dec. 14.—A determined effort to exonerate Thomas Mooney, former labor leader and now a "life-terminer" in a California prison, of any connection with the famous preparedness day bombing outrage in San Francisco in 1916, will be launched in New York City early next, it was learned here today.

Two Ohioans, Frank O. Stevens, innmate of the Dayton Soldiers' home, and Mrs. Dora Smith Monroe, wife of a Shadyside coal miner, are expected to go to the metropolis to testify before a committee of labor leaders and Mooney's friends, who have maintained that Mooney did not hurl the bomb into the San Francisco parade, with the resultant loss of 10 lives.

Mrs. Mooney, who has sworn to an affidavit which is in possession of International News Service, in which she declared that he brother, Ouis Smith, had confessed to her that he was the man who threw the bomb and that Mooney "was not even present," said she would leave for New York City early Tuesday.

Christmas Fire Hazards

Profiting by experiences in bygone years in which tragedy has often stalked the path of Santa Claus, State Fire Marshal Ray R. Gill has appealed to Ohioans to avoid fire hazards which, as he points out, are always pronounced during the Christmas season.

One southern Ohio town reported a fire this week which was attributed to Yuletide decorations, while three blazes, due to other causes, have occurred in East Liverpool.

If loss of life and property are to be prevented during the holiday season, common sense rules of safety must be heeded. Lighted candles, hanging of inflammable material on wires or around lights, use of cotton batting for decorations and placing Christmas trees near an open fire invite danger, and, too smokers should select places other than near the Christmas tree.

Not only in the home must precautions be taken. It is equally important, if not more so, that every possible safeguard should be adopted in church, lodge and other entertainments during the joyful season of the year. Santa Claus should set the example in the use of a non-inflammable costume. Indifference to the advice may cost the life of a child or a parent or others.

Let's do our utmost to make this Christmas fireless.

Giving Them Rope

Long, long ago some discerning phraseologist perceived the aptness of the simile of the rope-tied calf and the erring human on the wrong path, and coined the expression, "Give a calf enough rope and it will hang itself." Aside from all considerations concerning the value of the calf and the disagreeable spectacle provided, the phrase "caught on" and has been widely used.

George W. Rightmire, president of Ohio State university, is planning his hopes on this statement when he tells Ohio women of his belief that co-eds at the university, if allowed to smoke about as they please, will soon smoke themselves out and make any official ruling on the part of the administration unnecessary. The specific objection raised is to smoking in sorority houses.

"A prohibitory and unenforceable rule by the university would not make a desirable contribution to the state of mind, which, in the end, will lead to a general and generous condemnation of the practice," is the concluding thought in Dr. Rightmire's refusal to tie the co-eds "up short."

It is a wise procedure. Dr. Rightmire knows, as everyone familiar with the usual campus attitude knows, that the surest way to encourage a practice in a college group is to establish an arbitrary, unenforceable rule.

There are too many young women, by several thousand, on the state university campus to watch. Those of them who want to smoke will smoke. Those who want to smoke in their rooms, wherever they happen to be, will smoke. If enough of them are convinced after a period of trial that there are other things more ladylike and more profitable, they will stop. If not, they will continue. Rules, in their general application are useless unless backed by strong favor in the group to which they apply.

An Everlasting Battle

There has been a quarter of a century of uphill fighting directed against exploitation of children and, as the spotlight of public interest is directed at the issue again by the forthcoming White House conference on Child Health and Protection, the question is asked, "Will it be an uphill battle to the end?" And the answer is, "Yes, to the very end."

The substantial progress that has been made, however, lends encouragement to those men and women who are leading the fight. The census of 1920 revealed the shocking fact that approximately one out of every five children in the United States between the ages of ten and fifteen years, inclusive, was engaged in gainful employment. The total was estimated at 1,750,178. More than 24,000 of these were engaged in mining, and nearly 260,000 in manufacturing and mechanical pursuits. About 63,000 of the combined number were under fourteen years of age. Only two states had an eight-hour day at that time and educational and health requirements were in an embryonic state.

Twenty-five years of intelligent effort, among other things, have produced: regulation of child labor in every state of the Union; general restriction of night work; a decrease in the percentage of gainful employed children between the ages of ten and fifteen from 18.2 in 1900 to 8.5 in 1920; age limit and school grade minimum determined in the majority of the states.

There are still loopholes. The eight-hour day is not universal. Night work is still possible. Health and education standards are laxly enforced in some places and altogether lacking in others. New problems, too, have arisen to take the places of old ones as they have been solved.

The surest guarantee of freedom from child exploitation is an economic condition that does not open the way to temptation. Children are rarely put to work at a tender age from choice; their bondage is usually the result of stark necessity. When child labor was the general thing, everyone tolerated it. It is not so now.

A continued state of prosperity will minimize the troubles of the anti-child labor workers. As children are better cared for, they will grow to greater producing capacities and maintain prosperity. It is a profitable circle.

Dr. Harlow Shapley, director of the Harvard observatory, told a Philadelphia audience a night or two since that the new 200-inch reflecting telescope being constructed for use on Mt. Wilson, California, will probably solve a third of the mysteries of the stellar universe. You never can tell. It may multiply them by three.

Playing Their Own Game

It is a common belief that the criminal world takes advantage of every invention and device which will aid it in preying upon society, but the law has evidently beaten it to the radio. From many of the larger cities of the country gratifying reports have come regarding its use by police departments for the purpose of running down and apprehending bank and store robbers, hold-up men and other classes of law-breakers.

The latest use of the radio, and probably the most picturesque, was the transmission of a picture across the Atlantic to satisfy Scotland Yard that a man trailed there by operatives of an American detective agency was C. P. S. Westergaard, formerly head of the Chatham Phenix National Bank and Trust company at Harwick, England, who was wanted in New York to answer a charge of having obtained $50,000 from the Chase National bank by the use of forged transfer notes. The radio picture convinced Scotland Yard.

It is heartening to know that police departments are showing themselves capable of outwitting criminals at their own games; that they are no longer content to follow old systems which placed them at a handicap in the detection of crime. It requires a smart man to outwit society, but when society retaliates with smarter men crime will show a marked decrease.

Joe Vasconcelos, defeated candidate for president of Mexico, has changed his mind and issued a call for a revolution, which goes to show that the last election down there is not to be an exception to the rule.

Other Editorial Opinions

AGAINST FEDERAL SCHOOL CONTROL.
Secretary of the Interior Wilbur, in his first annual report, comes out flatfootedly against the much-discussed plan for a federal department of education with its chief as a member of the president's cabinet. He does not mince words when he says "there is a distinct menace in the centralization in the national government of any large educational scheme. Abnormal power to standardize and crystallize education which would accompany that financial power would be more damaging to local self-respect than any assistance that might come from the funds." In his opinion local government in education is the keystone to proper training for citizenship by universal public education.

This stand will be a disappointment to those who have been urging federal controlled education. The opinion of the secretary of the interior includes a reminder that the government is not indifferent to the cause of popular education. There is now a bureau of education within Mr. Wilbur's department, and he says that with sufficient financial support for its research, survey and other work, it is all that is needed. There is no necessity whatever for a department of education similar to the other departments of the government. The secretary holds this belief and he has the courage to express it in words that can be readily understood by all. He is an educator himself and it is significant that his views on this subject are upheld by the heads of most of the great American universities.

One other phase of the subject to which he does not refer is the fact that the passage of such a measure and the creation of such a department would have the effect of bringing into being scores of well-paying jobs, the cost of which would be saddled on the taxpayer at a time when the president and his associates are trying to relieve him of existing burdens. The danger in schemes of this kind lies in the fact that they seem to be in furtherance of a good cause. But we already have too much of what has been called "the deplorable bureaucracy" and we want no additional encroachment of the federal government on the rights of the states.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

Dignity and Charm

By Marie Marot

The day of hodge-podge furniture and knick-knacks has undoubtedly gone forever. Now one finds the home-maker striving not alone toward comfort, but seeking a charm and dignity that enhance the entire effect. No piece of furniture is chosen without due consideration to its background and its general attitude toward the rest of the room. If it doesn't fit into the scheme of decoration, it is of no use, and it goes. Which certainly makes for more charm, greater restfulness and comfort, to say nothing of the dignity which is imparted.

Odd pieces of furniture have come into their own. "Sets" of furniture, while still greatly used, are varied by having the pieces upholstered in different shades blending in with the color scheme.

The indispensable bookcase and secretary illustrated is patterned after Chippendale and Hepplewhite, embodying the best points of each. It is of mahogany with simple brass trimmings.

The china cabinet and chair are of the same period, and are also of mahogany. A Revolutionary touch is given both bookcase and cabinet by medallions of the eagle and stars.

Two early chairs are shown, the first with black painted frame and rush seat. The front legs are turned and end in hoofed feet. The second chair shows arched slatted back and top rail, and turned feet.

How To Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Long ago the Greeks brought the science and art of health building to its highest perfection. But with the evidence of civilization in the case of both Greeks and Romans, luxury and self-indulgence brought vices which caused the downfall of those nations.

It is remarkable at what high level hygiene was in those times. In Greece, prenatal care of the mother was practiced with the utmost diligence. The diet and general physical culture of girls were regulated with the view of preparing them for motherhood. Convicted of the great value of right food, fresh air and exercise, both Greeks and Romans regulated and controlled the food supplies of their nations. Their prowess at games and physical culture has never been surpassed.

We may emulate the ancient Greeks not only in beauty of form and radiant health, but in physical and mental power. Physical and mental development go hand-in-hand. The Greeks knew the value of sun and air baths, and their style of dress allowed the free circulation of air around their bodies. We might heed the animal world in right living. When an animal is sick, it knows instinctively how to treat itself. It abstains from food, rests, takes water or sand baths, its own kind of massage, and eats healing herbs and plants. Primitive man learned much from animals in all these matters. Right food, air and sunshine mean everything in developing health, and the animals knew it before we did.

Today we have public health centers for the study and prevention of diseases. For many, many years our doctors and hospitals have concentrated on cures for disease, but in these modern days there are great movements for disease prevention and for health maintenance.

In every great city are medical schools and laboratories where important research into every known disease is going on every day. Preventive measures for the public

TENTATIVE plans for the celebration of the one hundredth anniversary of the establishment of the schoolhouse at the foot of the beautiful and outstanding oak grove now belonging to Eliza J. Boyd and before him by John McBane, known as the Alderlick school, in Madison township, are now being arranged.

For many years it has been the custom of holding a quadrennial celebration and reunion by former and present attendants of the old school. The time for this event was last summer, but in view of the fact that the centennial anniversary will be reached in 1930 it was deemed advisable to postpone until then this gathering and combining it with the more elaborate event.

Though he himself never taught there, his teaching experience having been elsewhere, James W. McQueen of Wellsville, attended this school.

A grove of oak trees is situated on a high hill just above the school. At the foot of this hill is a spring of water that has been there perhaps longer than the several school houses which from time to time have occupied the spot. It furnishes clear, fine water and is now encased in protective cement walls. In the old days it was lined with stone.

FRAME structures followed the initial one of log and the building now being used has been there since, perhaps during or just before the Civil war. The oldest surviving pupil of this outstanding country school which was taught at times by many college graduates who themselves became men of ability in their professions or others to which they addressed themselves later is Thomas Patterson McKenney, who is now in about his middle nineties. He lives in proximity to the school on the farm in which he spent most of his life time.

Perhaps one of the earliest of the teachers was the late John Elliott, who, living on the farm on which now live George Shafer and James Hague, taught in it for many years. He was stern and inclined to the use of the birch, it is said, in furthering knowledge of the three "R's."

Then followed, among others, Prof. John P. Cameron, who was an uncle of the late Dr. W. T. Norris, of East Liverpool. He lived in a log house on a roadway about one mile west of the famed school.

Another of its early teachers was George Lucky, one of the early editors of East Liverpool's first newspaper in the early sixties. He also attended the Alderlick school. He lived some distance away in Wayne township and attended the Bethel Presbyterian church, a few miles away from the school. He later went to the war as a soldier and returned to become eventually the superintendent of the Pittsburgh schools for years.

Alexander Falconer, an uncle of James M. McQueen, of Wellsville, was another of the Alderlick teachers. He was a graduate of Mt. Union college of the class of '71. He was succeeded by H. H. Grafton of the '76 class of the same college. He taught in Alderlick for two years before being succeeded by the late Judge J. A. Martin, former probate judge of Columbiana county, while a resident of Lisbon. The latter was a native of Grant's Hill in Jefferson county.

D. F. McQueen, an older brother of Mr. McQueen, of Wellsville, succeeded Judge Martin as the Alderlick teacher. He also was a graduate of Mt. Union of the class of '76 also. He taught in the school for two years.

Then came to the place John F. Patterson of the '78 or '79 class in Mt. Union college. He died about five years ago after subsequently entering the ministry and becoming for twenty-five years the pastor of the Presbyterian church in Orange, N. J., the home of David Edison.

A graduate of Mt. Union in '79 Hugh F. Earseman, born near Highlandtown, was another of the school's early teachers. He also became a Presbyterian minister and is now in the thirtieth year of his pastorate of the church of the same denomination in Knox, Pa.

The late John F. McQueen, another brother of James McQueen, of Wellsville, taught the school for four years as another of the many Mt. Union college graduates that so functioned at the place.

Then there was Lyman Beecher

Grafton, who attended Mt. Union and Wooster colleges. He had his inning as a teacher in the school before departing for Colorado in 1886 where for an interim he was a county superintendent of schools which activity he followed with a long interim as the superintendent of the Manitou schools in that state, a position which he still holds.

Editorial Page Take 4 Reviewing S

NOW a prominent attorney of Louisville, Ohio, W. S. Fareman, a brother of H. F. Fareman, a graduate of Mt. Union in 1888, also was a teacher in the school.

Among those who attended the school is Judge J. A. McKenney of the New Cumberland, W. Va., court.

Another of the earliest teachers of the school was John Grant, who taught in the "forties." He was the father of James Grant, who resides in Wellsville.

Alexander Falconer who was born in the old Falconer homestead in Madison township was another Alderlick teacher. His sister, Katherine Falconer McIntosh, also taught there. Both have now passed away.

Alexander McBane, who now resides in Cleveland, is perhaps the oldest surviving teacher of the school, former pupils in it aver.

Altogether the list of teachers includes Dr. Robert McCready, of Sewickley, Pa., and the Rev. W. M. Grafton, Dan F. and John F. McQueen, Katherine McQueen, Rev. T. T. and Walter S. Esseman, Mrs. Elizabeth Cameron, Mrs. Elizabeth Fouts, Margaret Eakin, Belle McGillivray, Elizabeth South, Mrs. Bell Smith-Shaw, Dr. A. A. McIntosh, W. A. Robinson, Mrs. Martha McQueen Russell, the Rev. J. F. Patterson, D. D. Joseph Ferguson, Misses May and Josephine Wilson and others of more recent years who are known to the present generation.

ONE of the interesting markers that recalls the dash of the rebel cavalry leader, General John H. Morgan into Ohio during the Civil war is a tablet that has been placed at the intersection of two roads leading into Richmond, Ohio from Steubenville which indicated that the Confederates passed the spot while making for their intended jump across the Ohio river into West Virginia but which resulted a few hours later in their capture at West Point this county.

The tablet has the following inscription upon it which many motorists by stop to read and then later scan historical pages perchance to get one more in their minds the perspective of the eventful happenings of those days. Thus reads the tablet:

"Gen. John H. Morgan in command of the Confederate forces passed through this village on July 23, 1865 and proceeded northward by way of East Springfield pursued by Gen. James Shafelford who commanded the Fourteenth Illinois Cavalry, the First Kentucky Cavalry, the Ninth Michigan Cavalry, the Eleventh Michigan Battalion, the Eighty-Sixth Ohio Mounted Infantry and the Second Tennessee Mounted Infantry."

The tablet is marked as No. 10 and was erected in July of 1913.

Some of the older residents of Richmond recall, as young men, the fact that the last man riding through the town on that July morning with Morgan's men was one who wore a linen duster. He was of a distinct Southern type and of cavalier mien. He rode a prancing horse and stopped in the middle of the street to harangue the people who, awed, stood in the street to watch the feared invaders go by. In the distance farther up the street and rapidly getting out of sight were his soldier companions. He turned at one juncture during his talk and looked to the rear from whence he had come. There he saw the vanguard of the pursuing federal cavalrymen.

With rare presence of mind and apparently without the slightest evidence of alarm he turned to those before him and exclaimed in polite tones: "I observe that your friends are approaching." And then with no extra movement he touched his horse with spur and the animal sprang into a gallop. Turning backward as the horse sped away the linen duster soldier, with all of the grace that he could bring to bear, lifted his wide-brimmed hat and disappeared in a cloud of dust.

Thrilling Story of Romance of Modern Girl

CHAPTER 51.

PETER MORROW, who hired out as guide in the summer time, met the sorrel mare Slim Palmer thought so much of, coming down from the Three Lakes Trail, to the wagon road.

The animal was covered with mud and lather and loped slowly past him, headed for the corral at the High Sierra camp.

Pete, who was driving a truck at the time, shifted his quid of tobacco from the left cheek to the right, and thought it over.

Didn't look very good. In the first place, the sorrel mare, although fleet and well catted, was not of the sort that throws the rider or works loose from amateur hitchings. She was so gentle and patient that Slim had dubbed her the Duke's Delight.

And in the second place what was she doing up there on the high road? That trail had been closed since last year, and there were warnings posted at all the intersections. Only a fool would have gone against the signs, but, knowing that there's one born every minute, Pete put on a little speed, and passed the spent horse.

"Well, I see your sorrel mare comin' in without a rider," he told Slim Palmer a few minutes later.

"The hell you did?"

"Comin' down off the high road." Slim spat a stream of tobacco juice at the middle bar of the corral gate. "Tell 'em at the office that I've gone out to look for the Beavers. Phone the rangers two tourists lost on the high road, and one horse come back without a rider. And take care of that sorrel!" he shouted to the boy who helped around the corral.

They came upon Jack MacKimmions' horse tied to a tree, about forty minutes after he had left it to scale the bank in answer to Anita's cry.

He was still kneeling by her, trying vainly to devise some means of getting her down to the trail, when he heard their shouts, and knew that luck was with him, and help had come.

"I'll be right back," he promised her. "I'm just going down to see if they have anything we can use for a stretcher. Now don't worry, we're going to take care of you!"

"Get the two of 'em?" Slim asked, affecting nonchalance.

"Yeh. Found the man by the bridge, way down the stream. Broke his neck. Horse, too."

After a silence in which Slim nearly swallowed his plug, he asked, "What's the matter with the old lady? How come they're so far apart?"

MacKimmions lowered his voice. "Gee I don't know what to think. She's got both legs broke and she's running an awful high fever. Maybe she's out of her head. But she lets on that her husband ran smack or something and knocked her off, and then knocked somebody else off, I can't make out who."

Pete whistled.

"Said, 'Attempted murder, eh? Well, it don't surprise me none. He give her enough dirty looks, and he had plenty of alibis fixed to make it look like she keeled over by herself. . . . Cripes, it's just like a detective story!"

"Are you sure he was dead? Better let me go back and look for the body!" Pete put in excitedly.

"Nuts! He's dead as a mackerel. You stick with us. We've got to get her out, and it won't be easy with those broken legs. And then we've got to look to see if there's anybody else. Leave the dead man alone, he'll keep."

MacKimmions decided upon a blanket stretcher, and a line from the boulder. But first they'd have to do a little first aid and splint her legs.

Pete thought he could do it if he had the right kind of sticks, and something to use for packing. . . . maybe that tall grass down by the river. While MacKimmions and Slim were rigging the stretcher Pete took the best flashlight and went to look for his grass and sticks.

He wasn't gone very long. He came running back, breathless and empty handed. "Fell over him, gave him an awful clout. But I guess he won't care, he looks dead all right. It's . . . say, you're going to feel bad about this MacKimmions. . . . It's what's his name . . . the fellow you work with—Decatur!"

"Decatur! Decatur. . . dead!" With one leap MacKimmions was off the trail threshing about in the underbrush, forgetting even his flash light.

Slim said, "Too bad. He was a nice fellow. Had some trouble with his wife I hear. Cripes, it's always a fellow like that that gets it. . . . listen to that old woman up there, bellowing like a bull! Well, come on, Pete. We'll see what we can do. This is going to be tough on MacKimmions!"

MacKimmions had found his friend when they got to him. But Roger Decatur was not dead. He lay back in MacKimmions' arms, and managed a grin. Pete's kick had brought him to.

"Where did you fall from?"

"How did it happen?"

"Are you hurt bad?"

They asked a dozen questions but he just croaked, "Water. . . . swallowed whole peck of dirt. . . . wonder if I can walk?"

By this time Anita's cries were loud and angry.

"What's that?" Roger asked when they had washed some of the dirt and blood from his face and he had got most of the sand out of his mouth.

"Oh, some old dame fell off the high trail," MacKimmions said.

"Say can you two fellows get her? If you think you can, I'll stay here with old Decatur. . . . Then we can figure how we'll get out of here."

"Sure," Slim decided. "But we'll move Decatur up to the trail first. He'll be more comfortable there. Not so rocky."

Pete didn't like the look of Decatur. "Got any pains?"

Roger nodded weakly. Moving had been harder than he had expected.

"Well, you got a couple of broken ribs, that's bound to hurt," Pete said gruffly. "And a bunch of internal injuries, or I miss my guess!" he added to himself.

Slim studied Pete's face. "Here, you keep the blanket, Decatur!" He threw the blanket that was to have been the stretcher, over Roger. "Forget the old party with the voice. Let her walk!"

But of course Roger insisted and Slim finally took the blanket and went off with Slim.

"You might . . . tell me what happened," Roger said when they were alone.

MacKimmions began hesitantly. "Well, I don't rightly know. I was coming through the low trail when I saw this bird and his horse, both dead near the river. I can't figure how the old fool went over there. It's about the one place on that high trail where a horse couldn't slip. Still, there they were. . . . I was beating it for a telephone when I heard this woman crying. I don't know whether she's nuts or not. She. . . . shucks. . . . here they come! Either they've gagged her or she's worn herself out at last. First time she's been quiet in two hours!"

The woman looked like death, but when they laid the improvised stretcher on the trail near Roger she reached a hand toward him and said "Thank you for trying."

to . . . to help me. . . . For a moment her helplessness touched them, but almost instantly it passed. "He'll pay for it!" she sobbed. "I won't lift a finger to save him!"

The men moved uneasily. She'd have to be told he was dead. . . . MacKimmions opened his mouth to speak, but she drowned him out: "I don't care who knows it. . . . the whole world. . . . He tried to kill me. . . . to marry her. . . . oh! I can't bear it. . . . ooh. . . . but she won't go free. I'll see she suffers too. Write her name down. ## AUBURN SEEKS GUNS HIDDEN AFTER RIOTING

Convict Survivors Prepare for Another Jailbreak.

CELLS SEARCHED

By International News Service. AUBURN, N. Y., Dec. 14.—With "iron-handed" firmness, Auburn prison officials continued their search today for eight pistols which, it is believed, convict survivors of the violent jailbreak attempt that took nine lives Wednesday, hid away for future use.

Four pistols were found in the prison, two during the day yesterday and two last night, after prison guards aided by troopers scoured many out of the way crevices inside the prison. Prison authorities are certain that twelve pistols were used by ringleaders of the convict mutiny in their daring but vain struggle for freedom.

Meanwhile punitive close confinement is rigidly enforced. All meals are being served the convicts in their cells. No exercise periods are granted. These rules will be kept in effect until the missing pistols are found.

Seven Face Murder Charges.

Seven convict survivors of the sanguinary battle for freedom are facing first-degree murder indictments for the killing of George A. Durnford, principal keeper of the prison who was slain right at the outset of the outbreak.

Two investigations into the cause of the outbreak, the second to occur here within six months, are in progress. The results of the investigation will be used as evidence in punishing surviving leaders of the jailbreak.

One investigation is being conducted by the department of correction. The other is being made by District Attorney Ben Kenyon of Cayuga county, who expects to ask the grand jury for murder indictments against those responsible for Durnford's death when the jury meets January 6.

Acting Warden on Job.

Sergeant George H. Sullivan, acting warden of the prison, continues in charge. Warden Edgar S. Jennings, who was captured by the convicts and held hostage before being rescued by state troopers, has returned to his quarters in the prison but is still feeling the effects of tear gas he inhaled and a blow he received in the struggle which resulted in his rescue.

Sullivan is determined to make the convicts regret the killing of Durnford whom he termed the bravest, squarest man in the state. He has asserted that they need expect no leniency while he is in charge.

TORRENCE CAST IN "UNTAMED"

Ernest Torrence has taken his Scotch accent out of his moustaches, dusted it thoroughly, and is using it in John Crawford's first all-talking picture, "Untamed," which will come Monday to the Ceramic theatre.

The gigantic Ernest was brought to this country originally to play a very Scotch Scotchman in musical comedy. For years he aired his native Highland tongue in scores of stage productions.

During the last decade, however, he has been in silent pictures and there has been no need for the peculiar intonation of those who come from Glasgow, Edinburgh, or points north.

"Untamed," however, gave him his first Scotch role in talkies—and the "burr" which had almost disappeared from the Torrence diction has returned miraculously over night.

Besides Torrence and the star, Joan Crawford, the cast of "Untamed" includes Holmes Herbert, John Miljan, Grace Cunard, Don Perry, Gwen Lee, Eddie Nugent and Tom O'Brien.

"PARIS" PICTURE TUNEFUL HIT

Paris is a city of fun—and music. And "Paris," the first National picture starring Irene Bordoni, which opens Monday at the American theatre, is just like the city in all these respects—not least in that of music.

The score of the production, in fact, is fairly overflowing with melody. Among the outstanding numbers are such tinkling and useful creations as "Miss Wonderful," "My Lover, Master of My Heart," "Somebody Mighty Like You" and "I Wonder What is Real" On His Mind."

These were all written by Al Bryan and Eddie Ward, former Broadway songsmiths who are now exercising their creative gifts under contract at the First National studios at Burbank, Cal. Bryan wrote the lyrics, while the tunes were composed by Ward.

Shop in the morning hours

IT IS better to shop in the morning hours than to mourn in the shopping hours that you were not an early bird.

Shop before noon when stocks have been replenished for the onslaughts of the day before. Shop in the morning when stocks are still comprehensively displayed and arranged.

Shop in the morning when salespeople are brisk, refreshed, alert and more attentive than they can possibly be during the rush hours. Shop in the morning when you, yourself, are more fit to exercise your best taste and judgment—when you can shop leisurely, thoroughly, thoughtfully.

AL SMITH GOES TO WASHINGTON

Former Governor Seeks Government Aid in Construction of Dirigible Mooring Mast.

By International News Service. WASHINGTON, Dec. 14.—His famous brown derby cocked jauntily on his head, and the inevitable cigar tilted upward in a corner of his mouth, ex-Gov. Al Smith came to Washington today to see about getting some governmental co-operation in the construction of a dirigible mooring mast atop the towering new Waldorf hotel which is to be built in New York.

Although he is a business man, and his trip to the capital has no connection with politics, the former Democratic candidate found it utterly impossible to escape the crowds and the spotlight of public attention that have been his lot in recent years.

The former governor showed up at the navy department at 10:15 o'clock for a conference with Secretary of the Navy Adams.

ZOOK'S FIVE STARTS SEASON WITH VICTORY

Potters Down Bethany Quint On Local Court

Blue and White Holds Upper Hand Virtually All the Way; Snape, Bowen Score 18 Points; Funk Stars for Foe.

FLASHING a speedy attack, a defense which functioned when the going was toughest and, most important of all, marksmanship. Coach Earl Zook's high school passers triumphed over Bethany high school here last night, 31-16, in the opening game of the cage season.

Reserve Five Loses, 15-13 In Salem Tilt

Fail to Make Good on Foul Shots in Final Period.

Missing a series of foul shots in the last few minutes of the game, East Liverpool Reserves bowed to Salem Seconds last night, 15-13, on the local floor in a game preliminary to the East Liverpool-Bethany-Hill-differ of the 1929-30 court campaign here.

The defeat was somewhat hard to take in view of the superior floormanship of the Blue and White and the edge that had shown in all around performance for the full quarters. Getting away a start in the opening quarter when Witherow sank the first field goal of the game, the local lads were out in front the entire route with the exception of the last two minutes of the engagement.

During the final period field goals and a series of foul shots by Caplan, the husky Salem substitute center, ruined the Potters' hopes. That and their own inability to get their foul shots hitting rightly.

Myler and Witherow started at forwards for the locals, with Smith at center and Althar and Kelly at the guards.

Salem got the ball on the tip and they scrimmaged for a few minutes. Myler stopped a pass and the play went into East Liverpool scoring territory. Witherow dropped the first field goal from 20 feet out on the side. Salem got the following tip but the locals received hands several times until Myler was fouled. Myler missed the shot. Carpenter missed a side shot and a moment later Smith eased one under the basket on a pass from Witherow. The score was 4 to 0, East Liverpool. Myler missed a shot under the basket on a tip from Smith at cover.

Carpenter was fouled but missed the shot. The ball shot to the East Liverpool basket. Witherow scored under the hoops.

Linder scored Salem's first field goal on a pass from Carpenter under the basket. Myler was short on a close one. After a short scrimmage Witherow dropped one from near the foul line. Linder missed from the corner.

Potters Lead at Quarter. Slinger was fouled under the basket. He made the first one and missed the second. The ball went into East Liverpool territory. They were scrimmaging in midfloor at the end of the period. The score was East Liverpool 8, Salem 3.

Julian replaced Whitcomb at guard for Salem.

Althar got the ball off the tip. Smith lost a chance for a short try as Referee Patton called the ball out for traveling. Both teams missed long shots. Myler was hurried on an easy try and topped his heave. Kelly missed one of the same kind a moment later. Caplan replaced Slinger at center for Salem.

They scrimmaged for a few minutes and Smith dropped one through cleanly from a quarter length. Linder missed a short pot. Batlin was fouled under the basket by Smith and shot one of the two.

Witherow was close on a long try. Both teams were passing well. Salem marksmen, however, were guilty of inaccuracy. Caplan hit the banking board top.

Quakers Trail at Half. Julian got through for any easy shot which he missed as the half ended. The count was East Liverpool 10, Salem 4.

The East Liverpool lineup was unchanged as the third period started. Salem recovered the tip. Passing was interrupted frequently by out of bound throws. Linder missed one under the basket but a second later the lanky Caplan caged a corner shot. Witherow was fouled by Batlin and made one shot. The Salem five was playing an aggressive man to man game. Kelly scored under the basket for East Liverpool. Witherow's pass got away from Smith on a dead hope and chances for another bucket vanished. Kelly got the ball again and heaved one back of the score board. Caplan fouled Kelly under the Salem basket but the try was wide. Batlin rimmed one from the corner. Althar fouled Caplan under the Salem basket and the big boy made one of the two trials. Caplan dropped in one under the basket on the third of a series of short shots which rained temporarily off the banking board. The Salemites were pounding the board with frequency. The quarter ended with

The Potters were slow in getting under way the first few minutes but once they were off there appeared little question as to the outcome.

Shane, Bowen, Chetwin and McConville divided scoring honors pretty well, the two forwards bagging nine points apiece, Chetwin and Captain McConville six apiece.

Funk, the sandy-haired Bethany forward, was constantly a thorn in the Potters' side but the remainder of the West Virginia crew was pretty well guarded. Bethany rolled up 10 points out of Bethany's 16.

While the locals failed to complete many plays from the starting points, they nevertheless exhibited a good brand of floor work, considering the fact that they have scrimmage but little and, also, that Bethany has already played two regulation games as well as several practice tilts.

It was Friday the 13th and Zook had 13 men on the floor. A black cat would have completed the picture but, as it was, the locals managed to get over the hurdle without undue difficulty.

First Period. Shane and Bowen started at forwards with Joe Chetwin at center and McConville and Lane on the defense posts.

The locals appeared in brand new uniforms, blue silk trunks and the regulation white jerseys with blue numbers. A cheer went up for each member of the squad as the captains were conferring with the referee, Jack Patton, of Steubenville.

Rodgers got the tip and Bethany held the ball until Funk rolled a short one off the rim. The ball was in Bethany's hands again. Series of pretty short passes took the ball up but Gibson was short. Funk filtered through the locals' five-man defense to pop one from the foul line. Rodgers scored again but the points were disallowed on a rule violation. The Blue offense got started when McConville caged a clean one from 25 feet out. Funk was fouled and made it.

The Blue defense was tightening to check the Bethany sideline offense. Rodgers rolled one off the banking board. Lane's throw to Shane was strong, going out the end. Chetwin was fouled under the netting but missed the single try. Funk was short from mid-floor. Snape missed by inches the score East Liverpool 13, Salem 9. Visitors Begin Rally. Slinger replaced Carpenter at center as the fourth period started. Caplan got the tip but the ball changed hands again. The local defense tightened under the basket and short passing system in close quarters ran into plenty of snags. Smith was fouled on a shot shoe and missed both attempts. Caplan bucketed a hurried shot from the corner making the score East Liverpool 13, Salem 11. Smith dribbled the length of the court but his shot rolled off the rim. Pierce took Myler's place at forward. Whitcomb went back in for Batlin. Five minutes to go. Caplan was fouled and missed one shot. Witherow missed a short shot on a pretty pass from Pierce. Salem recovered the ball. Pierce was getting into plenty of scrammages. Witherow was fouled by Batlin. He missed the single toss. Slinger was short by inches on a heave from center. Witherow's try was wide.

East Liverpool took time out with the score still 13 to 11, with two and a half minutes to go.

They go again. Salem took the ball from out of bounds. They piled up under the Salem basket. Kelly was fouled in the melee but missed the shot. Pierce made a great try on a hurried shot but missed. Caplan was fouled under the web and made the first shot. He heaved again and made the second, tying the score at 13-13. Witherow was fouled on a shot from the foul line. He missed both as the crowd hung breathless on each shot. Slinger potted one from the foul circle, Salem forging into the lead, 15-13. The Blue and White seconds ordered time out. Twenty seconds remained to play. Smith tipped the ball under the basket, out of bounds. Salem was holding it and still had it as the game ended.

Law Student

Morris ("Moe") Berg, star catcher of the Chicago White Sox, who is reputed to speak half-a-dozen languages fluently, is now working in the Wall Street office of an old established law firm in New York City. He expects to be admitted to the bar in the first judicial district, New York, shortly. He will forsake law temporarily in the spring, when he will go south to join the Hose and don the mask and mitt again.

from the corner. Lane made a nice try from the foul circle but the ball dropped on the support. Chetwin duplicated and Bowen missed the third shot, from the corner, in a row. Snape, on a pass from Lane, scored from the corner. Bethany took time out. The score was East Liverpool 4, Bethany 3.

Chetwin got the tip but the ball was ruled Bethany's from out of bounds. Lane had the ball as the quarter ended. The score still was 4 to 3.

Second Period. Hukil replaced Allen at guard for Bethany as the second period started.

Rodgers got the tip into the corner. It came out in the Potter possession but slipped off Chetwin's fingers. Snape took a short pass under the basket from Jimmy Bowen to score after Bowen had gotten too far under the webbing. Snape scooped up Bowen's tip from a jump and potted it for two points. Bowen fouled Funk but the latter missed his shot.

Funk cut into the basket on a pass from Gibson and missed an easy chance. Bowen grabbed Lane's long pass on the run and greased it into the strings. A moment later the ball shot into Bethany's territory and the elegated center Rodgers potted it from the corner. The score was East Liverpool 10, Bethany 5, as Bethany took time out. Hukil, Bethany guard, rapped on the nose, necessitating a two-minute truce.

Rodgers got the tip. On the next play Funk was fouled and made the shot. Chetwin tipped to Snape but the play went into back court. Hukil pushed Bowen and the agile Jimmy potted the leather. Rodgers was shy distance on a short heave. Lane got Chetwin's tip on a foul line jump but his throw was strong. Lane missed a second later from 20 feet out. McFadden fouled Snape as the latter shot and the local forward made both tries count. Funk took an easy shot from the corner and made it. Lane got through under the basket but his one-hand try was hurried and it skidded off the rim. Chetwin dribbled half the length of the floor to score again with two Bethanians hanging on his neck. Chetwin scored on a foul shot a second later. Bowen was fouled under the basket but missed the shot. The score was East Liverpool 16, Bethany 8.

Third Period. Allen got back into the game at guard for Bethany at the beginning of the third period, replacing Hukil.

Chetwin tipped to Snape but the play got gummed up in the corner. Snape came out with a corner heave which rimmed. Snape was short by inches on a valiant one-hand shot from the corner. Funk fouled Lane and he bagged the throw.

Funk retaliated with a running shot from the side, half way out. Rodgers was fouled by McConville under the basket. He made both shots. Chetwin got the tip. Snape was wide from a quarter out. Chetwin started another drive to the basket but the leather slipped from his fingers. A moment later Bowen scored from the side zone. Chetwin was fouled and added another point. McConville, directly under the basket on the next play, applied the English and two more points slipped through. The ball went toward the Bethany basket but came back again. Snape was fouled and was wide on both throws. Lane threw from a trot 20 feet out but was wide. Allen was fouled by Chetwin and converted it into a point.

Bowen broke up a pretty piece of Bethany passwork but a moment later Funk, on a side line sortie, scored a field goal. McFadden fouled McConville who missed both charity tosses. Chetwin fouled Gibson who made the point. Chetwin had three personals on him at this juncture. Another would put him out. Gibson fouled McConville on the sidelines and the local captain made it. The score was East Liverpool 22, Bethany 16 as the period ended.

Fourth Period. Funk also was labeled with three personals and Coach Ronald Crawford of the Bethanians protested. But the play went on.

Chetwin tipped into scrimmage. East Liverpool took the ball and passed for several minutes without approaching the basket. Bethany recovered the sphere and similar tactics went on in the other half of the floor.

Harry McConville broke up a short shot by Funk at close quarters. McConville fouled Rodgers as the latter shot. Rodgers missed the first one and ditto the second. Bethany forwards could not get clear. Funk scored after whirling with the ball but the points didn't count, the ball being ordered out on steps. The leather went in to the corner at the other end of the floor. Bowen scoring from the corner at the other end of the floor. A few seconds after the next tipoff, McConville lobbed one from under the basket. Bethany ordered time out. The score was East Liverpool 27, Bethany 16. Four and one half minutes were left.

It was Bethany's fourth time out and Snape picked up an extra point on the technical foul shot.

Rodgers tipped to Funk, into a scrimmage, and the ball went wild. Bowen recovered. The ball went up to the local basket. Chetwin was short on two short ones under the basket on a pass from Bowen. Snape lacked steam from the corner. Rodgers tried from long range. Bowen recovered and took the ball down the sideline, coming in from 15 feet out. Chetwin missed another of a similar nature by inches. McConville captured the ball and held it, bringing out Bethany's five-man defense. Lane missed an easy one under the basket. Cook sent in a complete new guard, Dairymple and Simpson on guards, Clark, center, and Ashbaugh and Reese at the forwards. Bethany had the ball. Rodgers missed from midfloor. ## High Lassies Lose Opener To Quakers

Show Plenty of Ability In Tilt on Salem Floor.

Miss Miller's high school girls went down to defeat in their opening game of the basketball season last night at Salem by the score of 38 to 27.

Despite the score, the Potter lassies played a remarkable game all the way and given the improvement that should be their's, should come through in following games of the schedule.

The game was a hard fought battle all the way. In the early part of the conflict, however, the local forwards failed to find the basket consistently.

Toward the latter stages of the game, the local offense worked better and at one period only four points separated the contenders.

Cooper was high point scorer, with a total of 17 to her credit. Among the other outstanding stars were M. Johnson, a Freshman, J. Johnson and Moon. Steffen went out on fouls in the second quarter and Cunningham, the captain, in the third period.

Cooper and Mackey started at forwards; Steffen and Cunningham at centers, Moon and Williams at guards, Woolley, M. and J. Johnson and Pack were used in reserve capacity.

AVIATION GREAT FUTURE IN AVIATION

During the past year tremendous progress has been made throughout the United States in raising the general standard of flying schools.

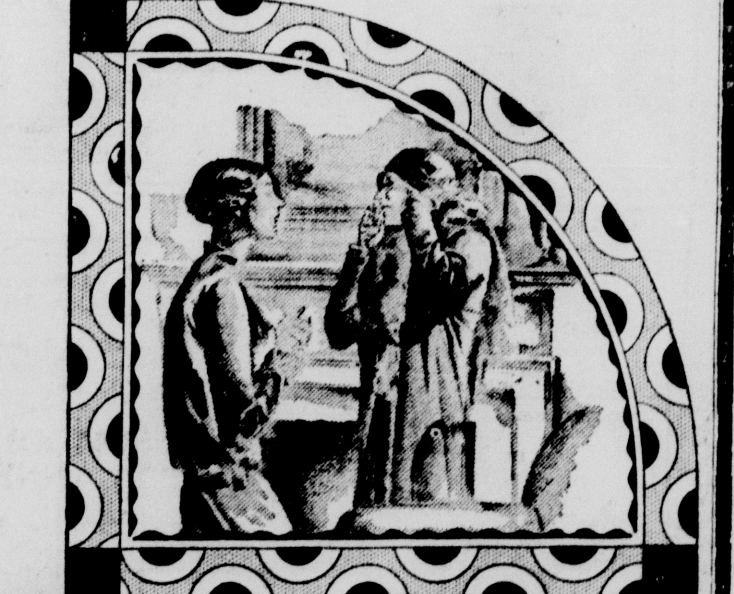

The haphazard individual instruction of yesterday has given way to highly organized institutions of training which will undoubtedly go a long way toward providing properly trained men for the different branches of Aviation, America's fastest growing industry.

The "Tex" Rankin System, prepared by that well-known pilot, is used exclusively in our training in both the ground and flying divisions. Our equipment is rated as satisfactory to turn out the best mechanics or pilots. We will not "Solo" a student unless he can fly safely, regardless of the hours it may take.

Persons desiring to take up the study of Aviation for education or professional lessons should enlist at once, in order to get far enough along to get the benefit of the superior flying conditions that exist in the winter months. No trouble to give you full details and terms. Call at Trotter's Chevrolet Sales Rooms, Market Street, on Tuesday or Friday Evenings, 7:30 to 9 p. m. Ask for Swaney, or Cooper, or Seyler.

SCIENCE SEES CURE FOR "FLU"

Chicago Professor Isolates Hitherto Elusive Bacteria.

CHICAGO, Dec. 14.—Science by International News Service. day envisioned a cure for the ravages of the dreaded influenza germ with the announcement by Dr. Isidore S. Falk, 30-year-old professor of bacteriology at the University of Chicago, that he has succeeded in discovering and isolating the hitherto elusive bacteria.

Dr. Falk quietly made the announcement in his laboratory last night before a group of fifty students. His momentous discovery climaxes a six-year period of research in general experiments for the isolation of the germ.

Making no bold predictions, Dr. Falk stated that his successful research now brings the "hopeful prospect" that an antitoxin for influenza will not be impossible.

"I hope that a vaccine prepared from dead microbes of the influenza germ can be absorbed through the mucous membrane of the nose and throat and in this manner effect a cure," he explained.

Unknown until now by medical science, the influenza germ which has taken its toll in thousands of lives is of the pleomorphic streptococcus type, according to Dr. Falk.

"It's appearance," he said, "is like a microscopic chain of unmatched beads which a child has strung together."

Dr. Falk used a group of Simian monkeys to aid in the "mobilization" campaign which he and his assistants began one year ago when the influenza epidemic was at its height.

Dr. Falk is an alumnus of Yale university.
